

There they go again

A group of Newry residents is once again seeking to convince their fellow townfolk to pull their students and tax dollars out of SAD44.

Newry (which has the highest per-capita income and lowest mill rate among the SAD44 towns) went through a similar process three years ago, and in the end withdrawal supporters fell far short of obtaining the two-thirds vote required to pull out of the district -- although a narrow majority (92-88) of voters did want to leave.

We don't know yet if the secessionists have any fresh ideas to bring to the discussion this time around. If the withdrawal process gets off the ground again, the pros and cons will no doubt be hashed out at great length.

Certainly there are some legitimate concerns Newry may have with SAD44. Programs that are important to some parents (including many parents elsewhere in the district) have been cut. And the relationship between the two wealthiest partners in the district, Bethel and Newry, has often been strained, something for which Bethel probably bears the larger burden of blame -- at least in the eyes of many Newry residents.

But the heart of the withdrawal argument is taxes, and with that in mind there are some points that should be made clear to everyone right at the start -- the most important being that Newry property owners, as individuals (which, after all, is how we're tallied and taxed in this democracy) do not pay more toward the school system than property owners in other towns; and, as individuals, they have just as much representation on the SAD44 board of directors.

If you own a $100,000 home in SAD44 it makes no difference whether your property is located in Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry or Woodstock -- you pay the same amount of school taxes (give or take a small fluctuation from year to year as valuations and assessment levels are adjusted).

And, since representation on the school board is based on one-person/one-vote (not, as former Bethel school director Linda Saunders aptly pointed out last time around, "one-dollar/one-vote"), voters in the five towns have pretty much the same influence on school board decisions.

But by an accident of political chance, the Newry town line encompasses a great deal of valuation (thanks to Sunday River), but a relatively small number of families with children in the school system.

And the secessionists have concluded that its only logical to divide the town's tax dollars by the number of its students -- to come up with a figure for what "they" are paying for an SAD44 education.

Then they complain (and can you blame them?): "We're not getting a $20,000 education in SAD44."

But who is this "we"?

Newry residents pay less than 20 percent of the town's total taxes, the remainder is paid (bless them) by Sunday River Ski Resort and out-of-town condo and second-home owners. If you subtract the amount that comes from non-resident, skiway-related taxes, it turns out that Newry residents actually pay considerably less than $4,000 per student.

You can slice and dice the numbers to come up with any figure you like, but at bottom this whole exercise is specious, because towns don't pay taxes, individuals pay taxes. As far as the school tax is concerned, towns are merely a convenient collection mechanism.

The secessionists' economic analysis is arbitrary and self-serving (as most of our arguments tend to be), but they are clearly right about one thing -- with their small number of students they could probably do the education thing cheaper, maybe even better. (Sadly, in the field of public education, bigger is seldom better, and economies of scale quickly sink under encrustations of administration -- you need only look at where the second largest, after debt service, percentage increase is in the current, "tight" SAD44 budget proposal.)

There's also another plum the secessionists can hold out -- if Newry pulls out, a few lucky families in town might be in a position to save a very nice piece of change, by figuring out a way to have the town underwrite their kids' tuition to Gould Academy.

But there's a heavy downside to this deal, and it falls with a sickening thud on residents of the four remaining towns in SAD44 (or will it be three -- if Newry goes, can Andover be far behind?). Assuming SAD44 recoups from increased state aid enough money to cover about a third of what it loses in Newry taxes, taxpayers in the remaining SAD44 towns will see their school tax bills shoot up by roughly 35 percent.

To put the impact in perspective: the total tax-base boost that Bethel can expect from the Bethel Station project (even at its most built-out stage) will be more than swallowed up by the increase in its school taxes. And the other towns in SAD44 have no Bethel Stations on their side of the tracks.

Bottom line? A few families in Newry (and quite a few well-off families in Massachusetts) will save some money, but at the same time hundreds of families, some of them far less well off, others desperately land-poor, will be asked to come up with money that in many cases they just don't have. And this may well turn out to be a double whammy for a few people -- if the sharp tax hike forces businesses in the remaining towns to lay off employees or cut back their hours.

Still, from the point of view of pure self-interest, you have to admit that the secessionists' case has some merit.

But the rest of us can probably take heart in the fact that the last time this matter came up, something more socially evolved than raw self-interest ruled the day. In 1991 nearly half the town's voters rejected the secessionists' brand of niche-market citizenship -- in favor of a larger view of their civic role: one in which the good of the individual is inextricably bound to the health and well being of the larger community, a community which is spread out not just over haphazard political boundaries, but also over time, with generations going to school, working, playing, building, doing business and grumbling about taxes together.

We trust their larger vision will once again prevail.

And isn't it ironic that the issue of Newry withdrawal is resurfacing just at the time the Bethel Planning Board is being asked to approve a height variance for the hotel in Bethel Station?

The rationale for that variance, at least as far as fire safety is concerned, rests heavily on the availability of the Newry Fire Department's ladder truck, but the mutual aid agreement between Bethel and Newry has far less history and is far less difficult to sunder than the SAD44 compact.

Some would no doubt argue that there's no direct connection between the two situations, but we think there's a fundamental connection -- either we are all in this together, or we are not.

Bethel selectmen stick with dump truck

But want to see more information before Town Meeting

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has signed off on a proposed FY95 budget of $1,288,439.

The budget figure, which is up 10 percent from the current year, includes a new dump truck for the town Highway Department -- a purchase which the town Budget Committee has recommended against.

Seven residents, including members of the Budget Committee turned out for Monday's selectmen's meeting to question the need for the purchase.

Much of their opposition was based on the contention that the Highway Department was not adequately maintaining its current fleet of vehicles.

"I'm not in favor of buying new equipment the way it's being taken care of now," said Budget Committee member Dick Douglass.

Douglass also asked whether the town should consider hiring a full-time mechanic.

Jack Greig said the current truck, which is 15 years old, should be repaired. "You have to replace (parts) and repair things because that's what the dollars and cents say to do," he said.

After hearing the concerns raised by the group, the selectmen moved on to other matters on the agenda, but later in the evening they returned to the budget, to agree on a final recommendation.

Following further discussion, they voted (with Bob Chadbourne in opposition) to recommend a budget figure which included the truck purchase -- but only so the question could be put on the warrant for the voters to decide.

But while they formally recommended the purchase, the selectmen said they wanted to study the issues (especially poor maintenance) raised earlier in the evening, and individual selectmen said they might well recommend against the purchase at Town Meeting.

"I'm not going to be comfortable supporting this truck at Town Meeting unless we know more," said "Dutch" Dresser. "I'm going to have to be sold."

Town Manager Madeline Henley was asked to gather further information on repair costs and maintenance records.

But Henley also defended the road crew, noting that Bethel keeps vehicles on the road longer than many other towns.

She attributed at least part of the earlier criticism to bad relations between some of the residents who turned out Monday and the road foreman, Bob Pilgrim. "I think there's some personal problems there," she told the selectmen.

The selectmen concurred that it was difficult to assess the validity of the criticism, but also that the questions raised deserved further study.

Garage architect bind?

The selectmen also discussed a possible problem with Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill's decision to change architects for the town garage.

Merrill, who will be building a new town garage as part of the Cross Street land swap, has brought on Harriman Associates of Auburn as architects for both the development and the garage.

But the wording of the article in which town voters approved the swap may have tied the vote to Merrill's original architect, Sebago Technics.

"My recollection is that there is no way in the world we can do this," said Dresser. "I don't think we left ourselves any wiggle room at all."

Henley was instructed to ask the town's attorney's opinion on the situation.

Kennett to market AIP lots

The board also awarded a marketing contract for the Airport Industrial Park to Kennett Realty.

Some conditions were applied, including the requirements that two contiguous lots be left -- in case the town needs them for a highway garage site.

Cathy Newell, representing the AIP committee, questioned the restriction. "We have an industrial park and I'm disappointed that the town is not seeing it as a job creation asset, instead of using it as an easy way out for the town garage," she said.

But the selectmen (who are currently trying to find alternative sites for the garage) voted to leave the restriction for the time being.

Bob Chadbourne said he didn't think the restriction would cause the Kennetts (the only bidders on the marketing contract) to withdraw their proposal.

"I've done quite a bit of business with Kennetts," he said, "and in my experience they're quite flexible. I think they'll work with the town."

Sad news

Near the end of the evening Monday, the board received sad news. It was learned that former selectman Henry Dombkowski, who left the board last year, had died unexpectedly earlier in the evening.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, May 5, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a history of the Oxford County jail by Sheriff Lloyd Herrick of Oxford County. The meeting is open to anyone interested in attending.

Many thanks are due Norman and Sylvia Clanton, Society life members, for donating an oak tree for the front lawn of the Dr. Moses Mason House that was planted this week by Fred Burk and crew.

As 1994 marks the centenary of the opening of Bethel's Brick Grammar School, the June program will deal with the history of that longtime Bethel landmark, which was demolished in the mid-1950s following the construction of Crescent Park School. This building once stood near Gould Academy on Elm Street and was the center of school experience for countless Bethel students. Photographs, artifacts and memories are needed to more fully document the history of this school. Anyone having anything to contribute to this project, which will be the topic of the June meeting, is urged to call Geraldine S. Howe at 824-3188 or the society office at 824-2908.

The latest issue of the Maine Historical Society newsletter contains a front page article on the John Mead Gould diaries, recently acquired by that society. Between 1855 and 1929, Gould faithfully recorded his daily activities and commented on a wide variety of social and political development in 14 volumes. The diaries begin as a 16-year-old student at Gould Academy and contain numerous references to Bethel, a town he kept in contact with and occasionally visited throughout his life as a Portland banker and noted Civil War veteran.

Bethel Rec. sign-ups extended

The Bethel Recreation Board at a recent meeting decided to allow those children interested in being on a T-ball team (ages 5-7), softball team (ages 8-12) or Babe Ruth team (ages 13-14) to register at the Bethel Town Office until Friday, May 13.

Red Cross Swimming Lessons will be offered this summer with Cheri Myers as the instructor. Canoe lessons may also be offered in conjunction with the swim classes at Songo Pond. Tennis lessons will also be offered during the summer months.

Student dies at Tuckerman Ravine

MOUNT WASHINGTON--A Tufts University student died Sunday afternoon while sliding on snow and ice at Tuckerman Ravine. Cheryl Weingarten, 21, of Hewlett, N.Y., slid over the ravine's headwall down a 100-foot water-filled crevasse. She died of a broken neck.

Tuckerman Ravine is a popular spring skiing spot. Other daredevils slide down the ravine on plastic sleds or just their clothes.

Rescuers from the Forest Service, Mountain Rescue Service, Andros-coggin Valley Search and Rescue, and the state Fish and Game Department went down into the crevasse, but it was too dark to enter. Weingarten's body was recovered Monday afternoon by a fish and game diver.

Gun brought into teen dispute

ALBANY--A disagreement between an Albany juvenile and three Bethel juveniles led to the Albany youth waving an unloaded gun at the three Bethel teens.

An Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputy responded Thursday to a report of four juveniles arguing on Route 5 in Albany. OCSO detective Jim Miclon said the Albany youth had been "needing" the Bethel teens for the past few months and the badgering had escalated in recent weeks. When the three Bethel teens showed up at the Albany youth's home, the boy went inside, came back with an unloaded shot gun and the Bethel juveniles left. Miclon said as of last week, no parents of the four youths wanted to press any charges.

Smelting impact assessment begins

RANGELEY--Game wardens and fisheries biologists have begun a study of the impact of smelting in the Richardson lakes area. Any decision on whether to close smelting at Mill Brook, Upper Dam Stream or Metallak Brook will be based on the fisheries' health, according to wild-life officials.

Tax review scheduled

ANDOVER--The Board of Property Tax Review is scheduling a pre-hearing conference with Andover Selectmen and MCI to discuss the MCI tax appeal cases set for June. MCI's appeal case for 1988 went to Superior Court and was remanded for a hearing. MCI also had appeals for 1989, 1990 and 1991.

Selectmen have hired an independent assessor to re-appraise the MCI property from 1989 on.

Maine crime statistics drop

AUGUSTA--Maine crime statistics have dropped for the second year in a row, according to figures released last week by the state Public Safety office.

Preliminary figures show a 9.3 percent decrease in serious crimes during 1993, from 43,287 to 39,250. The figures include a 2.7 percent drop in violent crimes and a 9.6 percent drop in property crimes. The violent crime rate in Maine was 1.27 offenses per 1,000 population, compared to 7.57 per 1,000 nationally.

Reported rapes and arsons were the two major crime categories to record increases between 1992 and 1993. Forcible rapes increased 16.8 percent, from 298 to 348, while arson climbed 14.4 percent, from 285 to 326. Sixteen people were the victims of murder or non-negligent manslaughter as compared to 25 people in 1992, a decrease of 36 percent. This is a record low for murder since the state began keeping formal statistics in 1971.

Planners approve two permits

BETHEL--The Bethel Planning Board approved site plan applications for a model home on Route 2 last week and a garage on Vernon Street.

Peter and Nancy Kitley received approval to construct a paneled beam home on their property near the former Red Rooster.

On Vernon Street, Jack Cross' plan to build a 40- by 60-foot steel garage for excavation equipment was also approved, with the condition that he screen the garage with trees.

Otten to Rumford: stick with industry

RUMFORD--Sunday River Ski Resort owner Les Otten told the River Valley Chamber of Commerce in Rumford to keep up its efforts to attract industry.

Otten said both Bethel and Rumford want what the other area already has. "The greater Rumford area looks at what is happening in Bethel and thinks if only we could get the tourists and diversity," Otten said, "while Bethel says, if only we could get an industry in Bethel." Otten said both should stick to working on their strengths. "The Rumford community can look at tourism, but I honestly don't think it's the answer for Rumford," he said. "You can sell tourism 25 miles down the road to entice light and heavy industry, to the region." Better transportation is the key to building on each regions strengths, Otten said, including improved highways and railways.

Boat launch access to be discussed

ANDOVER--The Oxford County Commissioners will hold a public hearing at the Andover Town Hall on Saturday at 10 a.m., to discuss providing public access to Maine Public Reserve land in Township C.

The meeting is in response to a petition signed by 364 Oxford County sportsmen, mostly from the Rumford area, asking that a stretch of road about four miles long be constructed from the South Arm Road to the lower end of Lake Mooselookmeguntic in Rangeley. The road would run along the eastern shore of Lower Richardson Lake.

Third route to Jordan Bowl discussed

NEWRY--The town's Roads Task Force has drafted a letter to Susan Hamill asking her if she would consider negotiating a right-of-way lease agreement with Sunday River Ski Resort, which would allow a Jordan Bowl access road to travel across her property.

Task Force chairman and selectman Jim Sysko said that the property is near Snow Village. Newry residents have objected to two other proposed routes into Jordan Bowl. The ski resort has proposed accessing the area through an extension of the Monkey Brook Road or building a bridge across the Sunday River near one of the town's old schoolhouses.

From the Bethel Police log:

Car burglaries on Tyler Street

Saturday, Bethel police received two reports of car burglaries on Tyler Street. At 1:30 p.m. a Tyler Street resident told police that the night before she had heard her vehicle horn sound. She checked the car and nothing was missing, but she did find a small flashlight on her lawn. Later in the day, another Tyler Street resident reported that someone had stolen seven cassette tapes and $3 worth of quarters from his vehicle. The tapes were valued at $56. Earlier Saturday, a Evergreen Road resident also reported that his car had been broken into. The thief took a flashlight, but also left one behind. A cassette tape was also missing.

The same day, a Broad Street resident told police that as she walked by the IGA a dog tied to the trees outside tried to bite her. Police contacted the dog's owner and asked that the animal be left at home from now on.

Withdrawal

million dollar mark in local school tax. Withdrawal supporters believe this milestone may cause some of those who voted against withdrawal the first time to reconsider.

If the proposed district budget passes in May, Newry will be assessed $1,014,832. The town sends 56 students to SAD44.

"We're spending a million dollars and that's ridiculous," said Sylvia Gray, who is helping to get the withdrawal process started. "That's over $20,000 per student."

Newry selectmen Jim Sysko, who chaired the 1990 withdrawal committee, said money is probably once again the impetus behind the drive.

"With the town's share of the budget going over a million dollars," Sysko said, "I suspect that figure may be what got people thinking about the issue again."

Newry's state valuation is the second highest in the district, at nearly $105 million. Bethel's valuation is about $130 million. Newry will be asked in FY '95 to pay 26.26 percent of the district budget. Bethel would pay 32.53 percent.

Fire safety

The question of fire safety was also raised. Custin described the hotel's fire standards and safety systems, and Bethel fire chief Jim Young noted that the Bethel Fire Department had a good working relationship with its Newry counterpart -- which would be called on to provide the ladder truck in the event of a fire.

Once again, most of the audience appeared to be satisfied with the proposed arrangements, although Pat Doonen questioned what the town's liability would be if there

Hooke also expressed uneasiness about the way the developers' requests tended to creep upward. "The town's in the position of a dog that's getting its tail cut off an inch at a time," she said, "because the farmer thinks that way he won't notice."

And Tom Wheeler drew a laugh from the audience by asking Merrill why he couldn't put two hotel floors underground. After all, he said, "the people who are going to use them are from the city anyway."

Compost

nitrogen to help digest the composted material.

Leaves and lawn and garden waste have high levels of carbon but very little nitrogen. Adding kitchen waste, which contains high levels of nitrogen, will make the pile decompose faster.

Composters should mix together about three times more brown carbon-loaded material than nitrogen-laden kitchen waste.

Kitchen scraps that can go in the pile include: bread, coffee grounds (with the filter), egg shells, pine needles, fruit peels and rinds, vegetable peels and tea bags.

To help speed up the process, chopping the material first is recommended. Manure from farm animals will also help hasten the decomposition.

Best left out of the compost, for various reasons, are: butter, bones, meat, cat and dog manure, dairy products, fish scraps, cooking oils, mayonnaise, peanut butter and salad dressings.

Water and air are also important to the mix.

If the pile is too wet or dry it will decompose slowly. Composters can test whether the pile is wet enough by grabbing a handful of the material and squeezing it. If water drips out, it's too wet. If it falls apart, it's too dry.

Poor air circulation will also stall a compost pile. If the pile is fluffed or turned frequently, it will decompose faster.

"Just try to have approximately three times more of the brown stuff (carbon) than the green stuff (nitrogen)," Murphy said. "Layer it. If it sets around for a while, water it. If you can take your material and squeeze more than a drop out of it then it's too wet. If you want a quick turnaround, water it, poke holes in it and turn it."

If all the ingredients are mixed together in the right quantities with the right amount of air and water, then the pile should heat up, reaching temperatures of up to 160 degrees in the middle.

"The compost is done when it meets your needs," Murphy said. "If just want to put it on the your flowers then whenever it's no longer ugly to your eye, it's done. If you want a more finished product, stop adding to the pile, let it stew and cure and within two or three weeks it's done."

Composting can even continue in the winter. The cold weather will probably slow up or stop the process, but it will start again in the spring.

The Earth Machines distributed last week are particularly good for composting winter kitchen waste, Bartlett said. If homeowners run out of leaves or other carbon materials, shredded newspaper or cardboard can be added to the winter mix.

OCSWC received a state grant last year which paid for 75 percent of the $30 composters. Workshop participants were charged $7.50 for the Earth Machines.

By just attempting composting, Murphy said, homeowners can help the environment by eliminating material from the waste stream.

"It's easy, and even if it's not working, nobody knows," she said.

The composting session was the second in a series of workshops sponsored by OCSWC. The next session is scheduled for May 14 at Pooh Corner Farms in Gilead. Anyone interested in presenting a training program should contact Marie Bartlett at 875-3561.

Gould summer school

Internet expands the campus around the world

By KIRK SIEGEL

The rigorous advancement courses offered by the Gould Academy Summer School in its 11th year will have a new component this year: probing of the Internet.

Whether taking calculus, chemistry, writing, or advanced drawing, during the first five days of the six-week session students will learn the tools for directly accessing information, software, and graphics from file servers around the globe.

For example, a calculus student will look for solutions that university students have tried and "posted" to on-line discussions. A writing instructor might require students to get feedback on his or her work from people in other parts of the country. A biology research as-ignment might consist of subscribing to a news group in an esoteric branch of the subject, perhaps to read current ideas about integrated pest management or a sub-specialty of genetic research. A course entitled "Internet Explorations" will also be offered for those wishing to pursue the medium further.

"We want youngsters to adapt to use the 'Net' as a source of current, ready information," said summer school director Dr. Harry "Dutch" Dresser.

The process is made easier by the Academy's direct connection to the Internet, which makes it roughly 50 times faster than the modem connections commonly used in homes and schools. "Covering a full-year's content in a six-week advancement course is rigorous, so it's nice to balance it with an exciting, new means of gathering information," Dresser said.

Each student takes a major subject -- equivalent to a full-year course -- and a minor course covering the work of a semester. Major courses include: biology, chemistry, calculus, writing, and many others. A few of the minor courses are silversmithing, ethics, several other math courses, and a writing laboratory designed to prepare younger students for college preparatory research and writing.

The summer school is an enrichment program, according to school officials, and as such is not designed for make-up work for failed courses.

Gould elbows in action at West Bethel kids center

This Sunday the West Bethel Children's Center received a surprise donation of a spring cleaning. Bill Kietfer of the Intervale Road purchased an afternoon of elbow grease from the freshman class at the Gould Academy Fall Parents' Auction and donated their labor to the Children's Center in West Bethel. The weather held out and the students spruced up the playground, washed windows, cleaned bathrooms, decorated bulletin boards, painted bookcases and gave the center about 60 elbows worth of effort.

The Parents' Auction is run by Gould Academy as a fund-raiser to help offset the expenses of the Four Points Program. The freshman class auctioned off their work power to help take responsibility for the cost of a eight-day trip to London, England.

Bill Kietfer reinforced the spirit of giving and giving back by helping the West Bethel Children's Center and ending the afternoon with sandwiches from Skidder's Deli for the workers.

A dozen teenagers from Newry, Ireland, are planning to come to the Bethel, Newry area the last two weeks in June. A variety of cultural events are planned during the two-week visit, including a trip to Augusta, hiking and canoeing, a trip to the ocean, and taking advantage of the local lakes. The teens will stay with host families in this area. Next year a group from the Bethel area will travel to Ireland.

BOOKS • N • THINGS "Between The Lines"

Dear Friends,
You may have heard about Allan Folsom's new (and first) novel, "The Day After Tomorrow." The author was paid millions in advances and movie options for this action-packed thriller even before it was published. But can the book be that good?
The staff at Books-N-Things offers an enthusiastic "yes!"
From the jolt of the opening scene in Paris, as American doctor Paul Osborn sees and chases the man who murdered his father twenty-five years before to the harrowing conclusion in the Swiss Alps, this suspense-filled thriller hurtles along at break-neck speed. Filled with characters, both good and evil (but how can you tell who's who?), you'll find yourself turning pages (nearly 600 of them) far into the night as you rush to solve the secret of "Urborg" the day after tomorrow.
We tried to peg author Allan Folsom. A young Ludlum? High-tech made believable -- like Crichton? Intriguing characters that struggle with inner demons -- a la Grisham? Throw in Foletti's best and you'll begin to get the picture: This is the 1994 must-read for lovers of fast-paced, superior fiction!

Telstar presents drama awards

By JANE CHANDLER

Several Telstar High School students were honored for their acting performances at a recent Telstar Regional High School Drama awards night. Blue Carpet awards are given to the best actors, actresses in each high school production and for technical achievement. Judges in the audience each night of the performance rated the acting and production. Telstar seniors Darren Wigley and Jenn Bowie presented the awards.

Blue Carpet awards for best actors and actresses in "The Curious Savage," a three-act play presented last fall, were presented to Amanda Gilbert, Rachel Stowell, Becky Chandler, and Darren Wigley. The drama club presented three one-act plays this spring. Blue Carpet awards for "Dirge," the play that entered state competition, went to Andy Dennis, Jenn Bowie and Rachel Stowell.

Awards for "A Mad Breakfast" went to Dan Wigley, Amiee Kaulback and Jessica Coolidge.

Awards for "Boom Box," a serious play about teenage suicide, went to Becky Chandler and Andy Dennis.

"Boom Box" will be presented to the students at Mountain Valley High School in May as part of their chemical awareness week.

Technical awards were presented to Lloyd Sweetser, Crystal Alyward and James Bonney.

The night was bittersweet, recognizing the achievement of many students and wishing a fond farewell to drama coach Bunny Latham, who has moved to Upper Frenchville.

The drama club will produce one more production this spring, a musical called "Story Theatre," by Paul Sills on Friday and Saturday, May 20 and 21, at 7 p.m. Carol Fiske, part-time music director at Telstar complex, is directing this production.

School sports

Baseball

Telstar 6, Madison 3

After dropping its first two games of the season, the Telstar High School baseball team (1-2) won its first game 6-3 Friday against Madison.

Telstar trailed 2-0 going into the fifth inning. With Josh Adams and Cory Koch on base, Adam Newell hit a two-out double to left-center, driving in the tying run.

In the top of the sixth, Telstar took the lead for good on a combination of walks, stolen bases and hits, scoring four more runs.

Sean Gilson (1-1) pitched seven innings, allowing four hits, two earned runs, eight walks and 10 strikeouts. Gilson was also the only repeat hitter with two singles and one RBI.

Newell, Ken Mason and Chris Howe all had doubles, and Koch, Adams, Tim Remington and Peter Miserocchi hit singles.

Newell drove in two runs with his double and Mason drove in one run. Miserocchi logged two stolen bases -- one a steal of home and the other a double steal with Adams.

Telstar's victory over Madison followed losses to Winthrop and Mountain Valley.

Telstar's next scheduled game is 4 p.m. today (Wednesday) at home, field conditions permitting. The Rebels are also scheduled to play Mt. Valley at home Friday at 4 p.m.

Track

Telstar 63, Hebron 67

The Telstar High School girls' track team did well in its first outing, winning a non-league meet against Hebron by four points.

"Many performances were better than the first meet performances last year," said coach John Applin.

Taking first place were Amy Howe, 800-meter and 1,600-meter runs; Jessica Pike, low hurdles; Melissa Howe, shot put; Cheri

Myers, discus; Dareth Howard, 100-meter hurdles and Dawn Waisanen, javelin.

Telstar began league play Monday at Jay. The Rebel's next meet is scheduled for Thursday at Winthrop.

Clough elected to NAIS board of directors

William Clough, Headmaster of Gould Academy, has been elected to the board of directors of the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS), which represents 1,000 independent schools and associations across the United States and abroad.

NAIS schools are independently governed, are supported primarily by tuition, charitable contributions and endowment income rather than by tax or church funds, and are non-discriminatory, non-profit institutions. Eleven of Maine's independent schools are members of the association.

As an NAIS board member, Clough will help to shape the policies of the organization that speaks for the nation's independent schools. During his term, the board will be working to expand membership services and to strengthen collaboration between public and private schools. Looking toward the 21st century, the board will consider how independent schools can best meet the educational needs of children in a world of changing demographics.

Clough brings a wide range of experience in education, on both the local and regional levels, to his new position. His academic career includes years as a teacher and coach at Holderness School in Plymouth, N.H., a counselor in Stockholm, Sweden, and a teacher at New London High School in New Hampshire. He returned to Holderness School and served as director of studies and later as assistant headmaster before assuming the position of headmaster at Gould Academy.

During his 11-year tenure at Gould, Clough has served as president of the Maine Association of Independent Schools and as president of the Independent Schools Association of Northern New England. He currently serves on the Commission for Independent Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. In 1993, Clough was a Klingenstein Visiting Fellow at Teachers College, Columbia University.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865 Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 met Thursday evening at 7 p.m. with eight members present with president Leslie Dean presiding. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Plans were made for Memorial Services and parade. Annual reports were passed out to be filled in and sent in by officers. A monthly newsletter from department president Gail Butterfield was read, also more thank yous from nursing homes for goodies sent them by the D.U.V. After the meeting light refreshments were served by Wilda and Crystal Wallace and beano games with prizes were enjoyed by the members. Next meeting will be held at the same place on May 25 at which time Memorial Services will be done for the deceased members.

On Friday, April 22, the Stoneham Cemetery Committee met at the home of Eleanor Nelson, with the sexton present, and several matters were discussed pertaining to the upkeep of the cemeteries and the object of the cemetery committee and funds available. I believe this was started in 1981 and not much has been done with it.

There is still a bit of snow up on Wilsons Mills off Parmachenee Road, as Albert Nelson, Jr., Troy and Eric found out last week when they tried to get into our camp. They never did get smelting.

Dale and Kitty Nelson, with Molly and Matthew and friend Hillary Mann are at home after spending school vacation in Florida. Their cat, guinea pig, fish, and hamster were well taken care of, but the little hamster went into hiding after he got out of his cage. He never showed up until after his little master got home. I thought that the cat looked extra fat one night, and I did leave food and drink out which was gone the next day, but everything turned out ok.

Stoneham Cemeteries: In order to prepare for Mother's Day and Memorial Day, lot owners are hereby notified that all old cemetery decorations will be removed by caretakers after May 7. Per the Stoneham Cemetery Committee.

Woodlawn Cemetery, North Waterford: In order to prepare for Mother's Day and Memorial Day, lot owners are hereby notified that all old cemetery decorations will be removed by caretakers after May 7.

Per cemetery committee.

The Fashion Show, put on at the Wilkins House in Waterford on April 27, was a huge success. Models from Stoneham were Cindy Fox and Debra Jones and the clothing was from Pat Perry's "Clotheshorse" in Bridgton. This was a benefit for the North Waterford building and repair fund for the church, and they had a good turnout. The power went off due to the first thunderstorm of the year, so the models had a real spotlight put on them and a nice evening was enjoyed.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

A "MAY" zing morns of May! The pleasantest time of the year, I think. When the early morning dawn breaks the eastern horizon a single silver star peers above clouds that are turning pink in the East. Birds start to sing as does my winter weary heart. Mid-morning golden rays bathe brilliant shadows across the newly emerald green leaves. Wildlife starts to stir. Down over the hill by the frog pond the "peepers" strike up their early morning chorus accompanied by the basso tones of old "Grampa" Bullfrog. At water's edge, a blue heron seeks his breakfast, and Mama Cow Moose and her youngest offspring dine upon the reeds below. May -- the "merry" month -- is full of "zingers." Lilacs scent the breezes by the kitchen window, and orchards blossom out in wild array of pink and white. On the sandy banks of the pine forests, the aroma of mayflowers mingle with the sharp, pungent odor of dry pine needles.

So if you're sick of the winter blahs, get up tomorrow morning, when the eastern skies put on their panoramic technicolor shows, stop, look, listen and inhale springtime. We so often take for granted the little things that make life worthwhile. Your whole being will be refreshed -- as you, the flora and fauna become renewed. Until next week then, enjoy and God Bless and Keep You.

Audrey Franklyn has returned home after an extended vacation that took her to points in Missouri, Port Charlotte and Orlando, Fla. Glad you're back, Audrey, the community welcomes you.

The Gilead Fire Department conducted a successful "controlled" burn at the Mason Orchards recently.

Robert Noyes now has employment at the Sudbury Inn in Bethel.

Ronald Ferris has returned to his work at Newton-Tebbels after successfully undergoing surgery this past winter.

Beverly Corriveau kindly transported me to Rumford last Thursday, where I had to attend to some personal business.

My husband put our peas in on the 24th; hopefully we will have peas around the middle of July, if Mother Nature cooperates with us and the birds keep out of them. When a "farmer," risk factors are always involved.

Tree swallows have occupied all our bird houses and are now inspecting the garage to erect "bigger" and "better" condominiums. Of course they will first have to take it up with the "planning" board, but as yet no local ordinances have been adopted.

Happy Birthday, Stella, 80 years young, who is being sent the happiest returns of the day from your neighbors in Gilead and all your friends and co-workers at Newton-Tebbels in West Bethel. Cards or letters will be appreciated. Please send to Stella at: Tofree Lane, Dover, N.H. 03820. (This lady is ill and misses her home town.)

How about news, folks. This seems to be for the "birds," if you know what I mean!!

"Thanks" is just a little word, No bigger than a minute -- But there's a world of meaning And appreciation in it.

Thanks seem so inadequate when one's heart is so full. So, with the deepest sense of thankfulness, I wish to thank my beautiful family, caring friends, and congregation of West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel for honoring me on my 85th birthday at the coffeehouse after the morning service. Daughters -- Dottie Adams of Hanover, her daughter Erin from Plymouth State College and friend Darrell; Norma

Salway, Bernie, Kassi and Kaity Gatchell of Portland; Ethel and Craig Turner, Sarah Bean from Wheelock College, Amber, David and Jonathan Bean and David Turner from Otisfield and Norway, all came and attended the church service with me -- a very special gift also was the beautiful bouquet of flowers, boxes of blooming pansies, the basket of cards, the banner, the birthday cake and other refreshments. My family came out to the house later for luncheon and more birthday cake and ice cream. My brother and wife, Roy and Bertha Hunter from Unity, came for the afternoon, Brandon and Tara Salway of Old Orchard Beach spent the day here Saturday. I also received phone calls from Alaska, Oregon, Idaho and California and other local towns. A day to be remembered!

The ice went out of the pond on Wednesday, April 27.

Along with other birds this week, we have had some flickers and a beautiful blue indigo bunting.

Only a few patches of snow left in cool, shady spots.

Phyllis and Bill Bancroft attended a surprise welcome home party at Bar-jo's in Norway last Friday night. The family of Mrs. Marion Arsenault hosted the affair in her honor. Other Bethel friends were also in attendance. Marion had just returned home after spending the winter months in Florida.

No. Woodstock

By SHANE BILLINGS

Every week I report that the snow is melting; however, this week I can say that it is completely gone from North Woodstock at last. The warm weather is a delight to the citizens of the town; Lee and Emma Billings, Sue Silver, and Jimmy Knights have used this day to do yard work.

On Sunday, the Silver family took a drive to South Arm and saw several animals, including two moose and two deer. Also over the weekend, Joelle spent an afternoon with her cousin Austrey and enjoyed a pizza party.

Mary Tyler sends greetings to all. She called Sue from Tennessee recently and reports that her baby is due on May 27. Her mother Linda has gone to visit her and all is well with little Kyle.

Louise Chapman spent the past week in Washington visiting her daughter Alison. They were joined there by Sarah Chapman, who took a leave of absence from California where she is learning to speak Chinese.

Emma Billings recently received a visit from her friends Phyllis Lowe and Marie Tyler.

All is well in North Woodstock as the residents look forward to the lazy summer months.

This is late April and I quote John Heywood, as he put it into rhyme -- "In April the koo-coo can sing her song by rote."

In June, of June, she can not sing a note;

At first koo-coo, koo coo sing still she can do;

At last, kooke, kooke, six kookees to one coo!"

This morning the sun battled its way up the horizon.

The robin shouted his happiness to the sky.

For several days I have not been out to go walking, so I looked at April. I have seen sunshine, as it shifted through the soft gliding water of the pond. Clouds came and went caressing rugged rock brows with gentleness or wandering afar over the tops of the forest, trying to tell the glad news of the coming of spring. At last the clouds blew away directly over the mountain summits in long fairy webs like carded wool, forming and dissolving, as if by magic. The breeze twisted them into ringlets and threw them far out. A grim and dripping world vanished.

There were the rolling hills, and the low lands dotted with bits of green and spiny clumps, a bluish haze of mountains, powerful against the horizon, and a sky of incredible sapphire blue.

From here the view was breathtaking; the pond in the foreground, now water mirroring the mountains, not ice of a short time ago. It was just one of those mornings common to Maine. Everything looked so serene, so untroubled.

All this brought to mind the trails I had walked with Ruth so long ago.

A trail has its own special meaning to each person who travels it. If at first the hiker does not understand the language of the pines or murmuring of the streams, the learning will almost always come in time. Once the barrier of solitude is overcome, the hiker will realize that walking is a form of selective concentration, and with that his thoughts wait only to be ignited. I look back to the pleasures I have had on trails and the teachings that they have imparted to me, and how those pleasures and teachings have given me happiness and a greater understanding of how to bring fullness and richness to my life.

The sun picked out yesterday's rain drops trapped on the grass and trees, so that they gleamed like some fallen galaxy of stars.

So if I could not walk today I had all this within my silver valley, where the scene was calm and peaceful.

Zilpha DiArenzo is back at her home here after spending the winter in Pennsylvania and Georgia with members of her family.

Mr. Chojnacki was taken to the hospital this week.

Robert Holt of Windsor, David Holt and family of Norway, Ann Holt and I were at the farm on Sunday. Several neighbors also called.

Dot Betts and I met with several others for lunch on April 21. Then we went to the home of Dot Betts for the afternoon.

Many birds recently returned, including the blue heron and the osprey. The tree swallows are very busy claiming bird houses.

I saw three lovely birds on my thistle feeder today, as I sat out in the sun, a purple finch, a gold finch and a chickadee. The raspberry red and the yellow were so pretty together. It was such a lovely day I wanted to walk but thought it best not to do so. My ribs are very painful at this time. I'm sure there will be an improvement soon.

So. Woodstock

By ANDREA WING

I attended a 14th birthday party for Jenny Record in South Paris Saturday night. I got to meet Brad Record's grandmother, Elva Millett. Those attending the party were: Jenny, Brad, and Linsey Record; Ed and Leatrice Record (Jenny's grandparents); Eva Millett (Jenny's great-grandmother); Kellie, Sarah and Jessie Hart; Carol Hall and myself. Cake and ice cream were served after the presents were opened.

Carol Hall's husband Neil is on a fishing trip to Arkansas. He will be gone for a couple of weeks. He called and the fishing hasn't been great so far, but he is having a good time just the same. Carol is serving on the jury in South Paris for awhile. Carol also told me that Kathy Benson is also serving on the jury this time.

I called my sister Dotte Critser in Arizona on Sunday, and she said that Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway and Ken and Alice McInnis stopped in for a visit while they were traveling around the country.

Alice Hoyt called and wanted me to remind anyone who started Woodstock High School, who would have graduated in 1944, that the 50th graduation year will be honored at the alumni banquet on June 4. They are hoping for a good turnout as many haven't seen each other since high school.

Alice also wanted to say that anyone graduating from Telstar this year and is the child, grandchild, or great-grandchild of someone who graduated from Woodstock High School could be eligible to receive a $50 scholarship from the Alumni Association. Get in touch with Alice if you have questions.

Matthew Ryerson stopped by and said he is playing on the JV baseball team at Telstar High School this year.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society notes that the modern writer Virginia Woolf once claimed, "I have had my vision." How many of us can say that?

Francis Brooks, Ruth Cox and Larry Billings have all given donations to the museum lately. At the May meeting of the society John Tibbetts will speak on the D.A.R.E. program.

The society observes that the author Henry James once wrote, "A great many people give me the impression of never having felt anything very much." Henry James often described Americans visiting Europe. The society studies past ages, people and ideas. Much information comes from such sources and you can benefit from this sort of exploration.

Did anyone notice the northern lights a couple of weeks ago? They were truly amazing. I can't remember seeing them like that for many years. They are always a sight worth watching.

Sarah Hart had her first track meet last night in Hebron. She did quite well. Jessie Hart has her first one on Friday night.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that if you give a pig and a boy everything they want, you'll get a good pig and a bad boy."

Upton

By ARLINE BERNIER

It was 3 a.m. when I pressed my flashlight against one of the small panes of glass in the outside door and my face against another. Surprised to see only long, black hair rather than the porch railing, the yard and trees beyond, I instantly realized that a black bear was as close to the door on the outside as I was on the inside. Several times through the night, I'd gotten up because the dog was barking frantically, opened the door and stepped onto the porch before shining the light around. My little kitten had tried to escape not aware of kitten enemies out there in the night, so this time I looked out from inside. Whew! I wish Mr. Bruin had known how to unlatch the cooler so he wouldn't have to break the latch to open it.

The Upton Church was packed and several stood as a funeral service was conducted for Nelson Douglass. It was a shock to the community, his many friends and his family to lose him so suddenly. He will be greatly missed. A committal service was held at the graveside and a lunch followed at the Ladies' Aide Building.

Ellie LeComte and Simone Lavalley cleaned the church in preparation for the service. Babe Goodrum, Tammy Grondin, Ellie LeComte, Christine Morton, and Simone Lavalley helped on catering.

The selectmen held a meeting last Tuesday evening with a few guests present. The main topic was waste management, which is a costly headache.

Wednesday afternoon we were victims of a brief, brutal and beautiful thunderstorm. The power was off for a few hours for the third time in a week.

Correction: The Windy Valley's Sno-Mobile Club's lawn sale will be May 21 instead of June. Sorry about that!

For Saturday, May 19, starting at 9 a.m., the Recreation Committee has planned a Ball Field and Playground Spruce-up Day. This is a work party and picnic, so wear old clothes, bring shovels, rakes, hammers and a picnic lunch. The committee will provide drinks. We hope to get the ball field and playground ready for the summer season and have fun at the same time. Hope to see you there. All are welcome. Rain date is Sunday, May 15.

Anyone who borrowed ski equipment from the town this past winter must return it to the Newry Town Office on Saturday, May 14, between 9 and 11 a.m. May as well stay for the spruce-up day and picnic, too! If you're unable to return equipment at that time, please contact a committee member. Committee members are: Gail Skoko, Ellen Marshall, Kathy Trefethan, Marcie Baker, Denise Roderick, and Nancy Babcock.

The Newry Mothers Club will meet May 9 at the Town Building, 7:30 p.m., with Karlene, Gil and Olive on the snacks. Also, the plant exchange is still on the program during the social hour.

The four members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" -- Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell, and Doris Parent were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. The overall score was won by Gil with two strings of 100 and 102. On the "Righties," Doris was high on the singles and triples. Karlene had two spares, Gil had two strikes and three spares, Bea had one strike and one spare, Doris had three spares. During the period of Oct. 20, '93 to April 27, '94, Karlene had scores of over 100 eleven times with the highest string of 118. Betsy had scores of over 100 eight times, Gil four times and Bea one time.

While I watched the funeral of former President Nixon on T.V. last week, it reminded me of the sayings of King Solomon. In his wisdom he said: "Life is useless, all useless, you spend your life working, laboring, and what do you have to show for it? Generations come and Generations go...But the world stays the same...The sun still rises, and still goes down...The wind blows South, the wind blows North, round and round and back again. Everything leads to weariness. Our eyes can never see enough to be satisfied; Our ears can never hear enough...What has happened before will happen again; 'Look,' they say, 'here is something new!' But, no, it has all happened before...Everything is useless...I was great...now I am nothing...The same fate is waiting for us all...In this world you find wickedness where justice and right ought to be...God is going to judge the righteous and evil alike. People work so hard to succeed, is it because they envy the things their neighbors have??? But it is useless, like chasing the wind...A man may rise from poverty to become King of his country, but it is useless, it's like chasing the wind, we leave this world just like we entered it, with nothing...In spite of all our work there is nothing we can take with us...It isn't right! We labor, trying to catch the wind...and what do we get? We get to live in darkness and grief, worried, angry and sick."

I watched the faces of the past presidents sitting there. What was going through their minds. I wonder. They all looked grim and thought-

Local pastor named to disaster relief positions

The Rev. John Grant, pastor of the Bethel Church of the Nazarene, has recently been appointed by the Rev. Clarence Hildreth, district superintendent of the Maine District Church of the Nazarene, as district representative to Nazarene Disaster Response, a nationwide disaster agency organized in 1992 following Hurricane Andrew.

As such, the Rev. Grant will be responsible for identifying disasters needing an NDR response and reporting this to a regional director, recruiting and training NDR volunteers from local Nazarene congregations, coordinating the solicitation of supplies and volunteers to serve in case of a disaster outside the local area, and communicating with pastors, local church leaders, and district officers. He will also represent NDR with other state disaster agencies, including the Red Cross, FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency), and VOAD (Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster).

Concurrent with this appointment, Rev. Hildreth has also appointed Rev. Grant to sit on the Maine VOAD Council as permanent representative of the Church of the Nazarene. VOAD originated at the national level when the need became very clear that there were too many groups who wanted to help disaster victims for them to work efficiently without networking. The members of the organization are all groups which volunteer assistance to disaster victims.

The Maine VOAD was organized in 1987 in response to the flood, with the Maine Emergency Management Agency acting as liaison. The need for a state organization was demonstrated as the state's many volunteer agencies attempted to help the flood victims. VOAD's stated objective is to serve the victims of disaster as efficiently as possible. The organization meets about six times per year to discuss the expertise and resources each agency has to offer.

Livingstone's Last Journeys

Two explorers known for retracing famous expeditions in order to focus the public eye on issues the world faces today will present a free slide show Thursday, May 5, at 7:30 p.m. at Gould Academy.

"Livingstone's Last Journeys Expedition" documents the 1993 trek of Elizabeth McKnight and Charles Haskell across Africa, in which they retraced the route of the last two journeys of Dr. David Livingstone in 1871-1873 before his death of dysentery in Zambia.

McKnight's and Haskell's party, which included a great-grandson of the famed explorer-missionary, completed the 3,000-mile expedition in order to bring attention to environmental and social problems that beset the African continent today. Environmental devastation, wildlife poaching, and the spreading of the AIDS epidemic are among the pieces of evidence that the narrative highlights.

The explorers are Edgecomb residents whose organization, the New Century Conservation Trust, uses the romance of famous expeditions to further their mission of aiding the conservation movement worldwide, and identifying the forces needed to achieve it. Says McKnight, "By retracing the great explorers, we break open time capsules, revealing to a new generation the convictions, the passions, and the raw courage of those who braved the unknown so many years ago."

What this meant to the members of the 1993 Livingstone Expedition was experiencing firsthand the stomach ailments and dysentery, and the 100-degree-plus weather that killed Dr. Livingstone. The 20th century explorers walked 330 miles on the final leg of the journey, to Lake Bangweulu where Livingstone died.

The 7:30 p.m. program in Bingham Auditorium is part of Gould Academy's In the News series, and is open to the public free of charge. Further information may be obtained by calling the school at 824-7800.

State Master Berry presented Myrtle Bisbee with a plaque honoring her for being top ads salesman for the Grange newspaper, "The Maine Granger," for last year. He presented a floral arrangement to Hazel Conant for assuming the job of treasurer for the Maine Grangers. Lewis Bisbee presented Clyde

Berry a plaque for being first editor of the "Maine Granger."

The Grange history is ready for the printers. State Master Berry commended Stanley Howe for his work on this.

Next meeting is May 3 at Bear Mt. Grange, South Waterford, with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper.

County Republicans meet

Oxford County Republicans met recently in South Paris to celebrate the fact that the party had fielded a strong slate of candidates for every legislative seat representing Oxford County.

Following a dinner served by the Hannibal Hamlin Women's Republican Club, chairman Stan Howe expressed his pleasure that the party had succeeded in filling every slot for the Maine Legislature with, in his words "strong and talented candidates."

He thanked the chair of the Candidate Recruiting Committee, Kathy Gleason, for her good work and all who made this possible. Republican candidates for the Senate are Norman K. Ferguson Jr. of Hanover (District 24) and Dana C. Hanley of Paris (District 25). Republican candidates for the House are Harry G. True of Fryeburg (District 45), Robert A. Baker, Barbara E. Lyon, Robert J. McHatten, G. Paul Waterhouse (District 46), Roger N. Roderick, John Underwood, Richard E. Varney, all of Oxford (District 64), Alvin L. Barth Jr. of Bethel (District 65), Nancy S. Carpenter of Dixfield (District 67), Tom J. Winsor of Norway (District 68), Brenda Birney of Paris (District 69), Robert Cameron of Rumford (District 70), L. Clinton Boothby of Livermore (District 93).

In other business, Nancy Hansen and Michelle Franke reported on the success of the Gubernatorial Forum held in Bethel in April at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. All eight candidates attended and a videotape was made of the two hour session. Heywood Sawyer of Greenwood was elected to fill the vacancy as vice-chairman created by the resignation of John Underwood of Oxford.

Oxford County pages for the convention Jarrod Crockett of Bethel and Bethann Henderson of Paris were introduced. Finance chair Becky Kendall of Bethel reported that Newry is the first town to pay its county quota of $1 per enrolled Republican.

It was voted not to hold the regular meeting in June since it would come on Primary Day. The next meeting was scheduled for May 10 in Dixfield at Mount Sugarloaf Grange. Speakers will be three candidates for Congress, Rick Bennett, Hollis Greenlaw and Glen McNaughton.

AHHS Tulip Race

Competitive cyclists from throughout the state and New England are eligible to compete in the Androscoggin Home Health Services Tulip Race scheduled for Saturday, May 21, in Lewiston. The Tulip Race is a 25-mile, moderately hilly course through North Lewiston, Greene and Monmouth. The Tulip Race is held in conjunction with the AHHS Tulip Trek, a non-competitive cycling event for individuals and families.

To enter the Tulip Race, participants must pay a $15 registration fee, which includes a lunch ticket and a Tulip Race water bottle. While the Tulip Trek is a fund-raiser, those entering the race are not required to raise pledge money. However, anyone participating in the race may elect to raise pledges to become eligible for any of several prizes. Proceeds support critically needed home health services for uninsured patients throughout Androscoggin, Oxford and Franklin counties.

WOMEN'S BUSINESS LISTING

The Women's Business Development Corporation (WBDC) is preparing for the second edition of "The Maine Women's Business Directory." The first edition in 1992 met with resounding success. Based on advanced inquiries, WBDC expects this second edition to greatly exceed the first in both listings and distribution. The directory, scheduled for publication in May, will contain listings for more than 1,000 women-owned businesses throughout the state.

The directory is organized by type of business and includes the company name, address, phone number, owner and, in many cases, a brief statement about the business. It will also include alphabetical and geographic indexes.

A basic listing in the directory is available at no cost. Expanded listings and advertising are available for a small fee. Anyone interested in either listing or advertising in the directory is invited to call Great Gatherings at 622-5330.

PUTNAM RETIRING FROM SUNDAY RIVER--Honoring the retirement of Joan Putnam are Sunday River President Les Otten, Joan Putnam, and Art Marshall, Director of hotel and condominium operations at the Resort.

Putnam retires from skiway

More than 70 Sunday River Ski Resort employees gathered at the Grand Ballroom of the resort's Summit Hotel on Saturday, April 23, to bid farewell to Joan Putnam as she officially ended her 11-year career as the manager of the Welcome Center office. She was honored with an elaborate reception and dinner, which was followed by many warm remarks given by the resort's senior management staff.

"There will never be anyone who can replace Joan," said Sunday River Resort president Leslie B. Otten. "Her relationship with our thousands of guests and homeowners has been outstanding for over a decade."

"Joan will be missed by all of us," added Burt Mills, vice-president of mountain operations.

Putnam began her career at Sunday River in August of 1983. At that time, the resort had a total of 54 condominiums, four lifts and 26 trails. During her 11 years at the resort, she witnessed the construction of an additional 626 condominiums, 10 new lifts and an additional 64 ski trails. Throughout this remarkable growth, she maintained her role as the premier Sunday River ambassador, greeting all who arrived for their ski vacations with her friendly smile.

"Joan's warmth and enthusiasm towards Sunday River's guests was constantly recognized as a standard of conduct for all of the employees to live up to," commented Art Marshall, director of hotel and condominium operations. "We will all miss Joan, and we wish her well in her new adventures."

Joan and her husband, Norm, plan to travel, tour the Maine Coast and ski at Sunday River whenever possible.

The Bethel Library

The new computer has been a real asset to patrons and staff in the month that it has been in operation. Over 30 books have been ordered from all over the state through the inter-library loan MaineCat program, and school children are enjoying the multi-media encyclopedia, "Encarta."

Plans are underway for the Perennial Plant Sale, which will be held this year on Saturday, May 28, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Bethel Fire Station. Please contact the library if you have an interest in donating plants from your perennial garden.

There have been many generous donations to the library's collection recently, Buzz and Linda Gamble,

Camp Sunday River summer program and schedule set 12 scholarships will be offered

The Sunday River Ski Resort has finalized programming and schedules for its popular Camp Sunday River day camp program.

The camp, which offers summers activities for children aged 5-15, will feature activities and environmental education in the mountains. The resort is also offering 12 "campership" scholarships.

Four two-week sessions will be offered: June 20-July 1; July 4-15; July 18-29; and Aug. 1-12. The camp runs Monday through Friday each week. Participants will be placed in three age groups: age 5-7 years; 8-11 years; and 12-15 years.

The camp will be under the direction of Maggie Sjostrom, who holds a degree in child development and psychology from the University of Maine at Orono.

Sjostrom is the technical director of Sunday River's Perfect Kids Skier Development program, and is the national technical director for SKI Magazine's SKIweek program. Sjostrom will direct a staff of six counselors, with backgrounds ranging from environmental education and Outward Bound instruction to American Red Cross Safety Instructor (WSI).

"Our focus will be on building self-confidence and initiative while facing challenges as a team," Sjostrom said. "Participants will engage in fun, creative activities and games." The program will include guided hiking and mountain biking, plus initiative games and low-element ropes courses. Swimming instruction will also be offered.

Sunday River will offer trolley shuttle service each day during camp. The trolley bus will depart from Telstar High School at 8:30 a.m., and depart from the Bethel Common at 8:45, the return trip starts at 4 p.m. Campers are requested to bring their own lunch. Cold storage for lunches will be provided. The fee is $110 per two-week session, with a fee of $90 for each additional family member. Registration forms are available at Sunday River.

Sunday River is offering one campership per age group during each session. Camperships will be selected by board members of Project Opportunity, which provides scholarship support to Telstar High School graduates.

Families interested in applying for scholarships may request an application from Project Opportunity, R.F.D. #2, Box 1972, Bethel, Me., 04217. Campership applications must be received by June 3. Area residents wishing to contribute additional camperships may contact Maggie Sjostrom at 824-3000.

Organic gardeners offer advice

Starting a garden this spring?

One-hundred volunteers from the Maine Organic Farmers and Gardeners Association stand ready to help new gardeners with on-the-scene advice. Anyone who wants assistance in their backyard, is asked to send their name, address, phone number, and gardening needs to MOFGA at P.O. Box 2176, Augusta, ME 04338-2176 -- where they will be connected with a local volunteer adviser.

MOFGA also answers questions about environmentally sound gardening practices over the phone (622-3228) and through the mail, and publishes the following technical bulletins and fact sheets which are available at a small charge:

--Bulletins: Basics of Organic Vegetable Gardening; An Introduction to Soil Fertility, Soil Testing, and Soil Amendments with Details on Compost Making; Basics of Green Manuring and Crop Rotation; Common Insect and Disease Problems in Maine.

--Fact sheets: Growing Organic Strawberries, Growing Organic Apples, Growing Organic Raspberries, Compost Making, Garden Weeds, Soil Test Interpretation, Establishing and Caring for an Organic lawn.

In addition, MOFGA and the Cooperative Extension have put together the "Maine Community Garden Organizer Handbook" for organizers who want to start a local community garden. The handbook contains general organizational procedures and information, specific do's and don'ts for community gardening, and descriptions and sample forms from successful Maine projects. A reference list of recommended books and pamphlets on gardening and food storage topics is included too. The handbook is available for $4 to cover postage and copying costs from MOFGA.

PUC Schedules Statewide Public Witness Hearing on Sale of GTE/Contel of Maine Exchanges Using University of Maine's Interactive Television Network

On February 4, 1994, a group of independent telephone companies filed a petition asking the Public Utilities Commission to approve their purchase of the GTE/Contel of Maine telephone exchanges. The Public Advocate and the Commission's Advocacy Staff have worked with GTE and the prospective buyers and have informed the Commission that the parties to this case will file a "stipulated agreement" that would allow the purchase. The commission must decide whether or not to approve this agreement. Affected customers who wish to hear an explanation of the "agreement" and offer their comments to the commission may attend a statewide public witness hearing to be conducted over the University of Maine's interactive television network at the following locations on Wednesday, May 11, 1994 beginning at 1:30 p.m. and ending at 3:30 p.m.: University of Maine, Yount Annex Room 11; University of Maine Houlton Center; University College Bangor Hall, Room 101; Bangor; University of Maine Augusta; Learning Resource Center, Room 15; Bethel (Telstar High School); Island Falls (Southern Aroostook CSD School); Lincoln (Mattanawcook Academy); Oxford Hills High School; Sherman Station (Katahdin High School); Thordnick (Mount View High School); West Buxton (Bonny Eagle High School).

The purpose of this public witness hearing is to give members of the public, who are not formally participating in the proceeding, an opportunity to comment on the proposed sale of the GTE/Contel of Maine telephone exchanges. You may comment orally or in writing. If the Commission approves the "agreement", it would result in the following changes:

1. Lincolnville Telephone Company would operate GTE's exchanges in the Damariscotta area;
2. China and Standish Telephone Companies would operate GTE's exchanges in the Sidney and Poland areas;
3. Oxford Telephone Company would operate GTE's exchanges in the Bethel and Hebron areas;
4. ST Enterprises, a Kansas corporation that operates a telephone utility in Kansas, would operate GTE's exchanges in the Fryeburg, Liberty, Fort Kent, and Sherman Mills areas; and
5. Westfield Communications, Inc., a newly formed company, would operate GTE's exchanges in the Westfield area.

The public witness hearing previously scheduled for May 18, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. at the Commission offices, 242 State Street, Augusta will be held as planned.

You can obtain additional information on the public witness hearing or the case in general from the office of the Administrative Director, Public Utilities Commission, 242 State Street, Augusta, ME 04333. Telephone: 207-287-3831.

KEEP US IN MIND

It's that time of year when your local Rotary Club must start gathering items for our annual auction. The proceeds of all of our efforts go to support such projects as the Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner, Christmas Food Baskets for the needy, student scholarships, support of the local health facilities, summer camp tuition, area athletes expenses, disabled individual needs, etc.

If you're cleaning the garage, attic or cellar, let us get rid of those unwanted items for you. Call Roger Conant, 824-2131 or 824-2269 for pickup.

Help us with your support of our projects. It's a good feeling!
